Хід уроку.

I. Introduction.

- Good morning, Dear students! I'm glad to see you. Today we continue to talk about communication technologies.

II. Warming up.

- Let's read and practice the tongue twister:

Bits Bytes Chips Clocks Bits in bytes on chips in box.

Bytes with bits and chips with clocks.

Chips in box on ether-docks.

III. Main Part.

- As you can guess today we are going to talk about computers and your favourite sites. We'll learn new words, read the text, write exercises, work with cards, discuss and do the crossword.

- Once upon a time there were no computers, no video games, CD-ROM players, modern TV, fast phone connections, etc. A lot of things were not possible. But now the world is quite different and we can't imagine it without computers. Can you tell me where computer is used now.

(Banks, cartoons, fax machines, games, hospitals, industrial robots, jet planes, libraries, newspapers, TV, sports, washing machines, X-ray scanners.)

– Computers can transfer money from one account to another.

– Computers can be used to organize thousands single pictures used to make cartoons.

– Computers are used to send and print the signal from machine to machine.

- Chess can be played with the help of computers.

– A hospital patient's health can be analyzed by a computer.

- Some companies use computer – controlled robots.
- Computers help guide planes by giving pilots important information such as speed and altitude.
- Books and other materials are checked out by using computers. Each book has a bar code.
- Reporters write their articles on the computer.
- Computers are used to control much in television.

Have you visited all of these sites? Why our list differs? I suggest working in groups. You have 5 minutes to write why your favourite site is the best.

Dear pupils our lesson is practically over. You worked hard. Your marks for the lesson are... Your homework is to present the idea of your own website. You may do it in groups of 4-5 pupils.
